I'm super freaked out and I turned of every notification and sound on my phone that I could. So what happened was today I was driving home from a softball tournament. We were on a highway and going about 60 mph. Then my dad's car battery died in the middle of the highway and a car came screeching up to us about a foot away. Then the car on the side rammed into my side and hit me. I'm fine, my whole right side is bruised but I'm okay.
